

Capabilities Statement

FORTE is a full-service technical communications company that specializes in advancing the strategic presentation of data for health care and other technical industries.

Forte provides full-service technical communications for the health sciences and other professional fields with specialized languages, including business, engineering, government, accounting, etc. Our core expertise is making highly complex technical information accessible to a nontechnical audience.

We provide a comprehensive range of high-quality scientific and technical writing, editorial, data analysis, Web and graphic design services. Our specialty is creating proprietary health care analysis and benchmarking solutions for pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and government organizations.

FORTE Offers:

- Complex, multifaceted, information- and graphics-rich publications, in print and via the Web.
- Project personnel who have significant and relevant experience designing newsletters, brochures, posters, and other marketing collateral, as well as scientific and technical reports.
- Personnel who are experts in all leading desktop publishing, illustration, design, word processing, and analytical and presentation software, including Microsoft Office, Adobe Creative Suite, and QuarkXPress.
- Project production coordination personnel who follow production schedules rigorously and never fail to meet deadlines or remain on budget.
- State-of-the-art communication, graphics, and production technology and resources.
- Exceptional client service standards, as evident in our high client-retention rates.
